V International Conference of Phraseology and Paremiology “Complex” Lexicalizations Research and Theories

Catania, 26-29 September 2018

in collaboration with Dipartimento di Scienze Umanistiche (Università degli Studi di Catania)
and
Centro di Studi filologici e linguistici siciliani (Palermo)

FIRST CIRCULAR

The 5th International Conference of the Phrasis Association aims at gathering together researchers and scholars currently dealing with “complex” lexicalizations: multiword expressions, idiomatic expressions, proverbs, stereotypical expressions, formulaic expressions, tongue twisters etc. In particular, the semantic and morphosyntactic features of these lexemes and their translatability, their cognitive dimension, their lexicographic representation as well as the relationship they have with the non-linguistic world, will also be addressed.

Through the proposed theme, we will try to encourage studies that can provide further insights on the current literature on the topic, within the national and international scene, and are related to what has already been discussed in the previous editions of the conference.

The Conference will deal with the following themes:

- Semantics, rhetoric and pragmatics in the processes of lexicalization
- From juxtaposition to lexicalized phrases
- Classification problems and typological boundaries of “complex” lexicalizations
- “Complex” lexicalizations: the neurolinguistic and psycholinguistic perspective
- “Complex” lexicalizations and translation
- “Complex” lexicalizations and teaching
- “Complex” lexicalizations: repertoire and lexicographic representation
- “Complex” lexicalizations and nonsense
- History of paremiology
- Proverbs and linguistic geography
- Earth, sea, sky and work: life telling in proverbs
- Archaisms in proverbs
